LSB

Welcome To LSB

┌ Hello and welcome to the London School of Business (LSB). We are delighted that you are considering studying with us.

Education is a great responsibility, and we are dedicated to providing you with the best possible one you can get.

We are confident that you will find what you need with us and enjoy your school studies.

└ As we are still relatively young, we do not rely on tradition but instead focus on continuous improvement and innovation within LSB from which you can profit.

Principal's Message

I am delighted that you are considering applying for one of our programme at the London School of Business. I hope you will have a great time by joining one of our programmes. We work hard to give our students the best experience and the necessary knowledge to help them in the future. Our priority is to help our students find their way in life and build a great future.

Our prospectus describes what it is like to be a student at LSB in the words of the people who know it best - our students, past and present, and staff. It also gives you information about what you would expect to see in a prospectus - our courses, services and facilities.

Despite this, a prospectus can only go so far, and the best way to gain an insight into life at LSB is to come, visit and join us. It is your choice. We wish you every success with your studies.

Building Leaders For Business

The business world is full of managers but few leaders!
One of the most amazing things about working on your leadership skills is getting to see yourself transformed as a person overall.

A young woman wearing a light-colored hijab and glasses is smiling warmly at the camera. She is sitting at a desk in a library, surrounded by bookshelves. She is holding a purple pencil over an open notebook. In the background, another young woman with red hair and glasses is focused on reading a book. The scene is well-lit and conveys a sense of academic achievement and personal growth.

Challenge yourself!

MBA

The Masters of Business Administration is a prestigious postgraduate qualification that provides an overview of fundamental business principles and practices. Top employers highly value it.

While MBAs are at the same level of education as any other Masters courses, they are usually studied once you have gained a few years of professional industry experience rather than straight after completing your undergraduate degree.

Completing an MBA can lead to a better salary, improved professional reputation and a massively expanded network of business contacts. If you are a graduate with ambitions for a successful Executive career, an MBA could be just what you require.

Students can choose from 5 specialised pathways as below:

- General
- Finance
- Marketing
- International Business
- Human Resources Management

Executive MBA

The Master of Business Administration (MBA) is a prestigious postgraduate degree that summarises basic business concepts and practises and is highly regarded by top employers. Although MBAs are at the same level of education as other Masters' courses, they are typically studied after gaining a few years of professional experience rather than immediately following the completion of your undergraduate degree.

Completing an executive MBA programme will result in a better professional reputation and a vastly expanded network of business contacts. So, if you are a recent graduate looking for a promising executive career, an executive MBA could be just what you need.

Executive MBA is delivered twice a week:

(Tuesday and Thursday) from 18:15 to 21:00 over 24 months.

Key Features

An MBA degree often leads to a promotion and increases career development chances. For example, did you know that graduates from business schools in the Financial Times Global MBA Ranking (2018) gained between 44% and 182% salary increase after completing the programme?

MBAs are known and respected globally. Therefore, if you are interested in working abroad, this qualification will be beneficial - particularly as the business schools in the UK are so well valued.

The majority of MBA students are often international ones, giving you a unique chance to network with like-minded business people from diverse backgrounds.

Benefits Of An MBA

With an MBA, you will be able to open doors to opportunities you may have previously been unable to. It's important to find an edge over your fellow candidates, to remain attractive in today's competitive business industry.

One of the best ways to make yourself stand out is to have a postgraduate qualification to your name – such as an MBA.

Better chances of career success

An MBA will show that you take your career seriously. Showcasing your determination and passion for progressing, employers will see you as a serious candidate for job offers and promotions.

A stronger understanding of business

An MBA will help to increase your existing bank of knowledge. As a student, you will learn how to apply creative thinking to your work and learn new processes that will help you down the line.

Transferable skills

MBA programme develops your ability to recognise excellence, appreciate customer value and human performance, and enhance your understanding of business strategy and implementation.

Connecting with the right people

Most MBA programmes will also involve an international study tour, allowing you to learn how a business operates worldwide. This experience will also help you to build relationships with other students.

A recognised qualification to your name

The majority of MBA programmes (50%) are based in Europe, whilst 33% are in Latin America and Asia. Wherever you decide to work, you can take comfort from knowing that your certification will be valued and recognised.

A man in a dark suit, light blue shirt, and striped tie is sitting at a desk. He is looking down at a spiral notebook with a pen in his hand, appearing to be in the middle of a meeting or a work session. A calculator is visible on the desk to the left. The background is a blurred office setting with windows. The overall tone is professional and focused.

A little progress each day adds up to big results.
